A person may choose to make a reconsideration request to the Authority or appeal to the Minister on a decision or direction of the Authority, but may not do both. If a reconsideration request has been made to the Authority, any appeal made to the Minister arising from the same decision or direction will be deemed to be withdrawn, even where the appeal is made by a person other than the person making the reconsideration request. If any person is aggrieved by the outcome of a reconsideration request, he may appeal to the Minister. The Minister may make regulations in respect of the manner in which appeals may be made and the procedure for hearing such appeals.

The new section 69A enables the Authority to recover interest on unpaid sums that are required to be paid under the Act or any code of practice or regulation.
